Things That Go Bump in the Night Provisional Votes Decide Outcome Fernando Gonzalez Wins Third Seat on Council

PERTH AMBOY - Election Night 11/4/14. Around 10 p.m. City Clerk Elaine Jasko opened the doors to City Hall. She handed printouts of the election results from the machine only to those outside who requested a copy. Jasko reiterated the fact that the count was Unofficial because they were from the machine only.

At that point the Perth Amboy United Team were the unofficial victors with Joel Pabon leading the way with 2066 votes. He was followed by William Petrick with 1885 votes and running for the first time, Sergio Diaz with 1810 votes.

New Direction for Perth Amboy Candidates: top vote-getter was Fernando Gonzalez with 1596 votes, who at that point had trailed the third place position by 214 votes. Jelmin Caba had 1540 votes. Ana Mascenik had 1528 votes. Independent Candidate Miguel Nunez came in 7th with 734 votes.

Before the night was over, there was a huge shift or bump-up in the votes when the Vote-By-Mail ballots came into place. Suddenly Fernando Gonzalez received 633 more votes putting him neck-to-neck with Sergio Diaz and Bill Petrick from the Perth Amboy United Team. Perth Amboy United received 1339 additional votes. (mail-ins). The New Direction For Perth Amboy Team received an additional 1821 mail-ins. There was an outside chance that Caba may place, too.

The Board of Education Results took an even greater shift. The results from the machine had Jose Rodriguez in first place with 1491 votes, Milady Tejada in second with 1300 votes and Anton Massopust third with 1251 votes. Fourth was Dianne Roman with 1235 votes, then Manuel Nunez with 971 votes. Thomas Thor

You Can't Take it Away!
Perth Amboy's History

Let's put politics aside. Today (11/11/14) is a GREAT DAY to be PROUD of the City of Perth Amboy.

As you may have noticed in the last few weeks, there have been ads in the paper touting the Joint Celebration of Veterans Day and the Ceremony Commemorating the 225th Anniversary of the Ratification of the Bill of Rights (November 20, 1789).

Perth Amboy, like any other small city has its faults. Whenever anyone points out the City's faults you as the resident, whether lifetime, longtime or new to the City should be proud to stick out your chest and declare: "Do you know where the Bill of Rights was first ratified?" The answer: "Perth Amboy!" And you CAN'T TAKE THAT AWAY FROM US!

On November 11, 2014 you can proudly declare that the original document, The Bill of Rights will be on display at Perth Amboy City Hall. It is the oldest continuous functioning city hall in the United States. We urge everyone, not only in the city but in the surrounding communities and states to take the rare opportunity to see this important historic document.

We give special thanks to Barry Rosengarten, Chair of Celebrate Perth Amboy who made this possible. 25 years ago in 1989, Rosengarten was chair of Celebrate Perth Amboy: The Bill of Rights Bicentennial (see top photo of the reenactment). He was the catalyst who recruited others to commemorate that historic event and the moving force to have the Arch in City Hall Circle built where the Reenactment of the signing of the bill took place. Hat's off to you, Barry!

I just want to thank everyone who supported me and congratulate those who won the election. I wish them luck in the large and important ask ahead of them: hiring a new Superintendent and building two new schools. I congratulate them and wish them all the luck in the world.

Help - Not Handcuffs!
Governor Christie's Call to End Stigma of Substance Use Must Include Ending Criminalization of People

Governor Christie scheduled a public discussion in Newark to De-stigmatize substance use disorders (SUD) "to educate the public and to remove the stigma that's attached to a disease."

Will ending the criminalization of people with SUD be part of this important conversation? People with SUD are often criminalized for victimless crimes like petty possession of drugs resulting in arrest, loss of rights and forced treatment - all traumatic, horribly stigmatizing experiences.

Moreover the belief that arrest and coercion is appropriate for people with SUD has resulted in an institutional bias whereas many people cannot access resources, supports or treatment, unless or until they have been arrested, incarcerated or sentenced.

Why would someone be arrested for having a disease should be the topic of this important dialogue. With close to 90,000 children and adults in New Jersey alone who cannot access care when they ask for it, wasting money on arrests and forcing treatment on those who do not want it is just backwards.

We need more than post-arrest and post-incarceration reforms for people with SUD. Stop arresting and start helping to support recovery, prevention and end the stigma of arresting sick people. We need Help Not Handcuffs.

The Fire Under the Kettle Has Gone Out

The United States has been referred to as "The Melting Pot", a nation of immigrants from all over the world. This is what the proponents of giving amnesty to illegal aliens keep reminding us. And that is true; we are a nation of immigrants. I don't care if you can trace your roots back to the Mayflower. Unless you are a Native American Indian your ancestors came from somewhere else.

In a melting pot, such as a furnace or kettle used to process scrap iron, you put pieces of old bicycles, pipe, bed frames, automobile parts, etc., into a big kettle. Then you turn on the fire and all these different parts melt down into one molten mass, becoming one if you will. It's the same with immigrants who came to this country legally, yearning to be free.

People used to come here looking for a better life and actually appreciated the chance to live here. Some got off the boat, kneeled and kissed the ground. Now there seems to be a lot of kissing going on but it's not the immigrants doing the kissing and it's not the ground being kissed.

People came here leaving what they had known their whole life and took a big gamble to make a better life for themselves and their family. They just couldn't walk in and be given financial and medical aid. They needed promise of employment, housing and had to pass a medical exam. Most of all they had to learn English. They were given temporary status, a Green Card, and a time limit to learn our language and our ways. I remember being embarrassed by a women studying for her citizenship test when she knew more about American history than I did.

Well I think the fire under the kettle went out as of late. People still keep coming to "The Land of Opportunity" but want to hold on to their "roots" for lack of a better word. We are not melding into one country. The scrap in the kettle is remaining separate pieces of useless scrap instead of becoming one mass that can be used for a meaningful purpose.

Theodore Roosevelt said it best back in 1907:

"In the first place, we should insist that if the immigrant who comes here in good faith becomes an American and assimilates himself to us, he shall be treated on an exact equality with everyone else, for it is an outrage to discriminate against any such man because of creed, or birthplace, or origin. But this is predicated upon the person's becoming in every facet an American, and nothing but an American ... There can be no divided allegiance here. Any man who says he is an American, but something else also, isn't an American at all. We have room for but one flag, the American flag ... We have room for but one language here, and that is the English language ... and we have room for but one sole loyalty and that is a loyalty to the American people.

I'm writing this because of something I heard the other day. Someone asked me if I had heard what happened in Woodbridge. I said, no what's up? He told me that the Woodbridge schools replaced the Veterans Day holiday with the Hindu holiday of Diwali. You could have knocked me over with a feather. I did some research and found that it was not Veterans Day that was replaced, it was Columbus Day. As it happens they never honored Veterans Day, (go figure). Are you kidding me? It shows how far the politically correct crowd will go to destroy this country's sovereignty.

Political Correctness is a joke. You can't speak your mind because it might offend someone, even if what you are saying is the truth. I like to refer to the Politically Correct as the "Pucker Crowd". It fits and the initials P.C. are ironically the same. The "Pucker Crowd" is not limited to just one political party, but tranchildren with Autism.

Anthony will be leaving at the end of November for this procedure in Panama which will cost approximately $20,000.00 and is not covered by insurance. scends political boundaries. That's the really scary part.

Many nationalities have holidays that are celebrated in their countries of origin and are celebrated here. You have many clubs and places of worship where celebrations are held, and you are free to hold them. We have parades; St. Patrick's Day, Pulaski Day, and Puerto Rican Day, to name a few, but we do not close American institutions on these days. That is, (or was), reserved for American holidays.

If you want further proof of how our country has become a scrap heap, take Patriot Day, the most solemn day in America. For those who don't know what Patriot Day is, (and I'm sure there are a lot of you), it is September 11th. That was the day that close to 3000 people were killed in the 911 attacks.

One house on my street was flying an American flag. Across Perth Amboy I counted ten. Yet when there is a festival or some ethnic holiday people drape their cars and themselves with the flag of their country, (funny I thought this was their country), and fly their flag from their houses. I guess I don't get this diversity thing. I must need sensitivity training. Sensitivity training, that's another joke worthy of another letter.

Checking In On Your College Student's Mental Health

By: Jennifer Rerngsamai, LCSW

OLD BRIDGE - College can be an exciting time, but it can also be overwhelming and stressful. Depression, anxiety, substance use, and eating disorders are common mental health issues on college campuses.

The Thanksgiving holiday and winter break can be an important time to notice if your college student is displaying any signs of mental health issues.

When your son or daughter comes home for the holidays, check in with them for signs of depression, anxiety, or other mental health disorders. Ask questions about their academic and social life at school, and listen carefully to what they say, or don't say.

Depression, bipolar disorder and post-traumatic stress disorder are the primary diagnoses of young adults. Most lifetime cases of mental health disorders begin by age 20 to 24. Yet studies cite that stigma is the number one reason many students do not seek help from on-campus resources.

According to a 2011 survey by the American College Health Association, almost a third of students reported feeling so depressed within the last 12 months that it was difficult to function, and almost half felt overwhelming anxiety. More than half of young adults who are no longer in college are not attending because of a mental health related reason.

Left untreated, major depression increases the likelihood of substance abuse, contributes to declining grades, affects class attendance, and influences an individual's subsequent development in negative ways. Suicide remains the third leading cause of death on college campuses.

While the time of transition to college can be exciting it can also be challenging, and it can be even more challenging for students already coping with mental health issues.

Parents can take steps to help a child living with a mental illness make a successful transition to college. Adequate treatment, communication, and proper planning are essential.

For students already living with a mental illness, think of your child's mental illness as you would any other chronic disease, such as diabetes, and plan accordingly. Students who are working with a therapist should develop a treatment plan to take away to college.

Make sure your college offers services such as therapeutic intervention, medication management, crisis response, peer-to-peer support, and training for faculty and staff on how to recognize the signs of mental illness or decompensation.

Freshman year can be difficult because it may be the first time students are living on their own and making many of their own decisions. Families need to work together and discuss how to balance new responsibilities while maintaining optimal health. Parents can help students create plans to manage day-to-day tasks, and create an emergency response plan, just in case.

Proper planning and adequate treatment can help students with mental illness succeed in college. Communication and planning can help your child make the best of their college years.

It's Never Too Late to Quit Smoking for Good

By: Helen Marra, RRT

OLD BRIDGE - The American Cancer Society marks the Great American Smokeout on the third Thursday of November each year by encouraging smokers to use that date to make a plan to quit, or to plan in advance and quit smoking that day. By quitting, even for one day, smokers will be taking an important step towards a healthier life – one that can lead to reducing cancer risk. This year's date is Thursday, November 20.

Tobacco use remains the single largest preventable cause of disease and premature death in the US, yet about 42 million Americans still smoke cigarettes — that's almost 1 in every 5 adults. As of 2012, there were also 13.4 million cigar smokers in the US, and 2.3 million who smoke tobacco in pipes — other dangerous and addictive forms of tobacco.

Just look at these remarkable statistics to see how quickly stopping smoking can make a positive difference in your health and longevity:

- 20 minutes after quitting, your heart rate and blood pressure drop.
- 12 hours after quitting, the carbon monoxide level in your blood drops to normal.
- 2 weeks to 3 months, your circulation improves and lung function increases
- 1 to 9 months, coughing and shortness of breath decrease, cilia start to regain normal function in the lungs, increasing the ability to handle mucus, clean the lungs, and reduce the risk of infection.
- 1 year, the excess risk of coronary heart disease is half that of a continuing smoker's.
- 5 years, the risk of cancer of the throat, mouth, esophagus and bladder are cut in half. Cervical cancer risk falls to that of a non-smoker. Stroke risk can fall to that of a non-smoker after 2 to 5 years.
- 10 years, the risk of dying from lung cancer is about half that of a person who is still smoking. The risk of cancer of the pancreas and larynx decreases.

- 15 years, the risk of coronary heart disease is that of a non-smokers.

For smokers who can't or won't quit, prolonged conditions can include chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD). COPD refers to a group of lung diseases that block airflow and make breathing difficult.

Emphysema and chronic bronchitis are the two most common conditions that make up COPD. Chronic bronchitis is an inflammation of the lining of your bronchial tubes, which carry air to and from your lungs. Emphysema occurs when the air sacs (alveoli) at the end of the smallest air passages (bronchioles) in the lungs are gradually destroyed. Damage to your lungs from COPD can't be reversed, but treatment can help control symptoms and minimize further damage.

Symptoms of COPD often don't appear until significant lung damage has occurred, and they usually worsen over time. For chronic bronchitis, the main symptom is a cough that you have at least three months a year for two consecutive years. Other signs and symptoms of COPD include:

- Shortness of breath, especially during physical activities
- Wheezing
- Chest tightness
- Having to clear your throat first thing in the morning, due to excess mucus in your lungs
- A chronic cough that produces sputum that may be clear, white, yellow or greenish
- Blueness of the lips or fingernail beds (cyanosis)
- Frequent respiratory infections
- Lack of energy
- Unintended weight loss (in later stages)

The health benefits of quitting smoking start immediately from the moment of smoking cessation. Quitting while you are younger will reduce your health risks more, but quitting at any age can give back years of life that would be lost by continuing to smoke. See your doctor if you need help quitting smoking, or if you may be experiencing symptoms of COPD.

Registered Respiratory Therapist Helen Marra is coordinator of Raritan Bay Medical Center's Pulmonary Rehabilitation Program in Old Bridge. The outpatient program provides patients with personalized treatment plans that include self-care education, physical reconditioning and maintenance planning. If you struggle with COPD, Emphysema, Asthma or another condition that causes shortness of breath, ask your doctor if you could benefit from pulmonary rehabilitation, then call to make an appointment at 732-360-4290.

Images will be judged on originality, technical excellence, composition, overall impact and artistic merit. The Judges will consist of a panel of professional photographers as well as those familiar with photography. All decisions made by the Judges are final. # Because we ♥ our heroes.

For more than twenty years, Fisher House Foundation has been dedicated to meeting the needs of our military heroes and their families, all made possible by the generosity of people just like you. At the very heart of our program, we construct and donate Fisher Houses to military and VA medical centers, and support the operation of more than 60 existing houses. These “homes away from home” offer a welcoming place to stay for the families of our military while their loved ones receive specialized medical care. Because lodging at any Fisher House is free, patients and their visiting families can focus on what’s most important, the healing process. Additionally, our Hero Miles program assists with travel needs, and our scholarship program offers educational advancement to military children and spouses.

Novena to St. Rita

O holy protectress of those who art in greatest need, thou who shineth as a star of hope in the midst of darkness, blessed Saint Rita, bright mirror of God's grace, in patience and fortitude thou art a model of all the states in life. I unite my will with the will of God through the merits of my Savior Jesus Christ, and in particular through his patient wearing of the crown of thorns, which with tender devotion thou didst daily contemplate. Through the merits of the holy Virgin Mary and thine own graces and virtues, I ask thee to obtain my earnest petition, provided it be for the greater glory of God and my own sanctification. Guide and purify my intention, O holy protectress and advocate, so that I may obtain the pardon of all my sins and the grace to persevere daily, as thou didst in walking with courage, generosity, and fidelity down the path of life. (Mention your request.)

Saint Rita, advocate of the impossible, pray for us.
Saint Rita, advocate of the helpless, pray for us.
Recite the Our Father, Hail Mary, and Glory Be three times each.
